BROTHERS

Almost every choice made over the last twenty years comes back to that night in Tokyo. how can you keep denying this? Every choice that impacts our society -- politically, militarily -- has a monster at its core. This Akuma-shin -- it's a catalyst in our lives, far beyond its physical reach. How we react to it affects our culture, our most basic outlooks. We fear it, so much so that we always look away.

It's not "gobbledegook" when our government conditions us to accept encroaching, escalating danger as some kind of new normalcy. Since 1956, the, quote, acceptable levels of radiation in our food have been raised some eight times.
